

Who we are

A small independent and agile design studio based in Chelmsford. We provide brand communications and design services, combining creative thinking with sound planning to deliver the best solution possible, whether you're a large company or a small and growing start-up.

We value high levels of creativity but for it to be effective, it must be directed, focussed and organised. That's why we think the best solutions must be balanced with meticulous organisation to deliver your project and achieve your goals.

"I have worked with Sui at Balfour Wong for approximately five years. Her approach to design projects is exemplary; it is strategic, creative and insight-led. The result is thoughtful design work across varied campaigns, delivered responsively to often challenging timescales. As an agency, the design offer is comprehensive across multiple digital and print formats including liaison with supplier production teams to ensure quality is maintained and deadlines are met..."
